Liam Ward just got the starter position on the hockey team and he's determined to have the best year of his life. If only his teammates would stop pointing out how "grown-up" his best friend has become and putting thoughts he most definitely shouldn't think about in his head.

Evie Clark wasn't supposed to fall in love with her best friend, but she did. She doesn't know when or how it happened, only that one day being close to him brought butterflies to her belly and her heart would start racing every time he was near. If only the feeling were mutual.

Just when Evie thinks there might be hope for the two of them, she sees Liam flirting with another girl. To put a stop to her feelings before it's too late, Evie will do anything, even go out with a football quarterback.

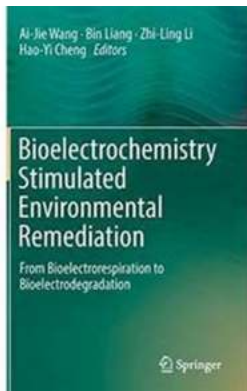

She might have put him in the penalty box, but the moment the timer buzzes, this hockey player is determined to win the game.

The Penalty Box is a complete standalone, sweet YA sports romance novella taking place in the world of Greyford High.
