"FORWARD MARCH made me snort with laughter even as my heart was aching. Meghan's journey from newbie to seasoned band nerd is worthy of a standing ovation." —Lisa Jenn Bigelow (author of DRUM ROLL, PLEASE)

Love, loss, and the surprising aphrodisiacs of the band locker room. That's what the Dulaney High marching band has in store for Meghan Riggins. Like her Gram, who's been her biggest fan since that first trombone lesson, Meghan's always loved making music. So marching band should be easy, right? Wrong. It's hard enough staying upright during the halftime show, avoiding the worst of the upperclassmen, or remembering the difference between a cummerbund and a dickie. But then she falls for Jonah, an adorkable fellow trombone nerd who just happens to be her best friend's brother. Meghan may need to rethink everything she knows about herself, in and out of band, with and without her family and friends, and in and out of love. Both witty and poignant, Forward March will have you laughing, swooning, and cheering from the stands.
