first contact with tennis, joy and nostalgia come to my mind for having a group of friends with similar goals and coaches who were working hard to make as feel at home and to create something that would last for a long time. I have tried to keep those emotions and feelings alive during my I'm convinced the first stages in tennis have to be well taken care of and conceive them as the most important, no unnecessary pressures and make sure, girls and boys can understand what we can expect from them according to their possibilities to avoid frustrations and, eventually, kids leaving the sport.

Besides the methodologies that Martin and Josep are sharing with us, you will also have the chance to learn tennis from a different approach, by helping others to get connected to the sport like Tennis Aid does and, in the end, see that tennis is a way to learn on good values off the court too. You will learn how to win, lose, listen and so many more things that will help you in your personal and professional life by having an open mind. Tennis is a school for life. Don't miss out this opportunity!
