5. From Homelessness to Harvard: A Teen's Journey to Success

Dear Harvard,

Congratulations! I am pleased to inform you that I, Malia Obama, have accepted you, Harvard University, as a college I might attend beginning Fall 2016. You can take pride in this accomplishment since you were selected from a number of extremely competitive institutions, all of which were very well-equipped to educate me.

My high school academic record is excellent, as well as my test scores which are, frankly, off the charts, and it is with great pleasure that I inform you that if I do attend your institution, I won't need a scholarship or combination of scholarships, because I am a millionaire and the daughter of the President of America. Additionally, I am happy to say that between my impeccable grades and outstanding pedigree, I will be driving up donations to your annual fund by 23%, if and when I choose to attend.

To finalize my acceptance of Harvard as my college, I'll be sending the following items, all of which, I think we both know, are merely a formality since, I mean...come on.

1. My non-refundable deposit of $200, which is "due" by May, 2016, though I have a feeling that if I miss the deadline—you know, because maybe it slips my mind while I'm having dinner with Angela Merkel—Harvard will make an exception.
2. An official high school transcript demonstrating that I didn't just fuck around and smoke pot during second semester, not that I even get to try pot before you-know-who leaves office.
3. An official transcript of any college courses I take for credit. Not sure how I'll get a transcript from the State Department that says "sat in the war room during strategy meetings and managed to study for her French AP and get a 5" but I'll try.
4. Verification of lawful presence in the U.S.—I guess a birth certificate would work here? LOL.

A supplemental document called Important Information for Any University That Malia Obama Chooses is enclosed and I recommend you review it carefully. It has pertinent information on how not to be total fucking weirdos with my Secret Service agents.

On behalf of myself, the White House staff, and of course, my dad, President Barack Obama, welcome to maybe being my university.

Sincerely,

Malia Obama
Exemplary Applicant and Daughter of the President

David's childhood was marred by homelessness and poverty. However, he never lost hope. With his exceptional academic achievements and the support of various organizations, David managed to secure a full scholarship to Harvard University, proving that determination can triumph over any adversity.

6. Teen Musical Prodigy Breaking Barriers and Inspiring Many

Jessica, a sixteen-year-old musical prodigy, broke numerous barriers in a male-dominated industry. Her exceptional talent and hard work earned her recognition as one of the most promising young musicians of her generation. Jessica's story is a testament to the power of pursuing one's passion against all odds.

7. Teen's Initiative Provides Clean Water to Impoverished Communities

Young Kevin witnessed the devastating effects of contaminated water in impoverished communities. Motivated by compassion, he started an initiative that aims to provide clean water solutions to those in need. Kevin's determination and selflessness serve as a powerful reminder that even a single individual can make a significant difference.

8. A Teen's Battle with Illness: Finding Strength in the Face of Adversity
