In 2013 Author and Iraq War Veteran Kevin E Lake wrote a 'Heroes Highlight' series, telling the stories of some of the veterans who have fought in Iraq and Afghanistan. The series was featured on Yahoo Voices, and one of the pieces, "You've Come a Long Way, Soldier!" which focused on women in combat, was one of only five articles out of millions of articles submitted in 2013 by more than 600,000 writers at Yahoo to win the Yahoo Content of the Year award.

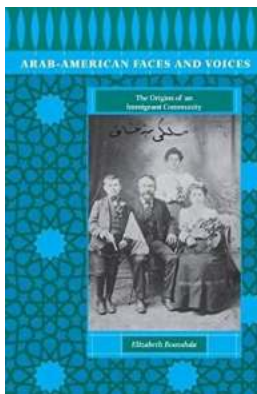

Effective 31 July, 2014, Yahoo Voices will no longer be online, nor will any of the tens of millions of stories published on the platform. Therefore, Lake has taken 29 of his best pieces, mostly from the 'Hero Highlights' series, which was read by hundreds of thousands of people, and put them together in one collection, so that the stories of some of our real American heroes will live on.

Lake also did extensive research on the suicide epidemic among U.S. veterans and wrote about it in-depth, even interviewing mothers who'd lost their sons to P.T.S.D. suicide. Those writings are also in this collection, as well as reporting Lake did on the excessively high unemployment rate among returning veterans and of how disabled veterans have been hit by the I.R.S. scandal. The collection includes information on how veterans can protect their VA disability benefits from creditors, including the dreaded I.R.S.

There is a bonus section at the end of the book which includes some of the featured prose, satire, and fiction that Lake wrote for Yahoo as well.

If you want to read about real American heroes, the kind that take the oath at a time of war and travel to distant lands to fight for freedom, then this book is for you.
