

The Shocking Truth: The Toxic Sky Chemtrails Falling – Are We in Danger?

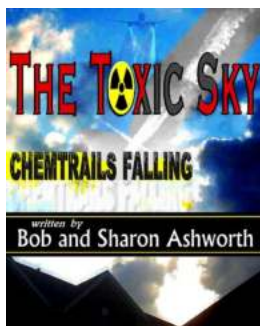

Have you ever glanced up at the sky and noticed long, white streaks trailing behind airplanes? These trails, often referred to as chemtrails, have been the center of many controversial discussions and conspiracy theories. In this article, we will delve into the mysterious world of chemtrails, examining the claims, the science, and the potential implications for our health and environment.

What are Chemtrails?

Chemtrails, short for "chemical trails," are the white lines seen behind airplanes. Unlike contrails, which are condensation trails formed when hot airplane exhaust meets cold air, chemtrails are believed to consist of chemical or biological agents deliberately released into the atmosphere.

The Controversy

Conspiracy theories surrounding chemtrails suggest that government agencies or secretive organizations are using airplanes to spray harmful substances on unsuspecting populations for various reasons. These reasons range from climate manipulation and weather control to mind control and population reduction. However, it is important to critically analyze the evidence before jumping to s.

Scientific Explanation

According to the scientific community, chemtrails are nothing more than regular contrails. The white trails are formed when hot exhaust particles, primarily water vapor, cool rapidly in the cold upper atmosphere. Contrails can persist for longer periods under specific atmospheric conditions, leading to extended trails.

Debunking the Myths

1. Mind Control: There is no scientific evidence supporting the claim that chemtrails are used for mind control. This theory often arises due to the presence of certain chemicals found in the air, such as aluminum or barium. However, these chemicals can be attributed to natural sources like soil and volcanic eruptions.

2. Population Reduction: The idea that chemtrails are part of a sinister plan to reduce the global population is not backed by credible evidence. The chemicals detected in the air are found in minimal concentrations and are unlikely to cause widespread harm.

3. Climate Manipulation: While some claim that chemtrails are used to manipulate the climate, the scientific consensus is that contrails have a minimal impact on global temperature. The main concern when it comes to climate change is the emission of greenhouse gases, not the presence of contrails.

Health Concerns

Although chemtrail conspiracy theories may lack scientific support, it is important to address potential health concerns. Some individuals claim that exposure to chemtrails causes respiratory issues, neurological disorders, and even cancer. However, scientific studies have found no evidence linking chemtrails to these health problems.

The Environmental Impact

Another aspect to consider is the potential environmental impact of prolonged contrails. Contrails contribute to the formation of cirrus clouds, which can impact regional climate and modify the Earth's radiation balance. However, the overall effect on global climate is still a topic of research and debate.

After examining the available evidence, it becomes clear that the chemtrail conspiracy theories lack scientific credibility. It is essential to approach these claims critically and rely on valid sources of information. While contrails may have some environmental impacts, they are not a nefarious plot to harm humanity. So next time you see those white trails in the sky, rest assured that they are nothing more than harmless condensation dissipating in the vast atmosphere above.

On Memorial Day May 29, 2006 our son Jeff called us early in the morning and told us, airplanes were spraying something into the sky, early in the morning, over his home in Wooster, Ohio. He said it looked like a spotter aircraft was directing the other planes where to spray. He said a friend of his called him early that morning about what was going on. We were not totally convinced at the time that could really be happening, but shortly thereafter we saw the same thing over our home in Sugar Land, Texas. Therefore, we started investigating the phenomenon and found our son's assessment to be correct.

We need to be alert to our surroundings or in the future we may not have the freedoms we now enjoy. There are many events in recent times that should be causes of great concern to Americans and others around the world; two fairly recent ones are discussed in this book:

1) Carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>) causes global warming; computer programs were developed and used to predict this but there is no scientific data to support it; the average global temperature in 2008 was the same as it was in 1982. Further, the so-called greenhouse gases are misnomers; they actually decrease the earth temperature rather than increase it. The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change scientists were even caught fudging the data (Climate Gate) so they could show warming.

2) Fine particulate is being sprayed (geoengineering) into the atmosphere to thwart the earth from warming, but no mention of this by our government. In fact, they deny it. The U.S. EPA website calls these strange cloud formations contrails but clearly they are not. This spraying of particulate is being done not only in the United States but also around the world. The minerals, in fine particulate form, being sprayed are harmful to our health.

After extensive research on the subject, there appears to be several spraying programs that are being carried out by our government. The major one is the effort to block solar energy from hitting the earth. The aerosols sprayed by planes to accomplish this effort we have determined are primarily aluminum oxide and high carbon ferromanganese and the tonnages being sprayed are very significant. Other military programs appear to be spraying barium salts for enhanced 3-D imaging. These programs are secretive because of the harm the spraying of these compounds might bring to people's health. The global cooling program is the area we concentrate on here. As wrong as it may seem, the United States is allowed to conduct such spraying; a law that was passed in 1997 allows this, see Public Law 105 – 85 - Nov. 18, 1997: Use of Human subjects for testing of Chemical or Biological Agents.

Thomas Jefferson, once said, "All tyranny needs to gain a foothold is for people of good conscience to remain silent!" Therefore, for the sake of the people of America and the world we decided it was our duty to write this book. We believe we have provided sufficient evidence to support what we are relaying and are writing this little book to bring to light what is going on so we can protect ourselves and our children in the future. This is not a conspiracy book; it is an evaluation of what we have seen with our own eyes, the data that confirms it, and an analysis of what it is telling us.
