Answers

1. The cricketer holding the record for the most number of sixes hit in a single cricket match is AB de Villiers. In an extraordinary display of power-hitting, de Villiers smashed a colossal 16 sixes while playing for the Royal Challengers Bangalore in the 2015 Indian Premier League.

2. The legendary Sir Garfield Sobers was the first cricketer to score a triple century in a test match. Sobers achieved this incredible feat while playing for the West Indies against Pakistan in Kingston, Jamaica in 1958.
3. England's Jim Laker is the cricketer who took all ten wickets in a single inning of a test match. In a mesmerizing performance against Australia in 1956, Laker spun his way to an astonishing 10 for 53, etching his name in cricketing history.
4. The cricketer known for his unorthodox batting technique, often described as the "frog in a blender," is Shivnarine Chanderpaul. The West Indian left-hander perplexed bowlers with his crab-like stance and unique movements at the crease.
5. Richard Levi from South Africa holds the record for the fastest century in international T20 cricket. In only 45 balls, he reached the three-figure mark against New Zealand in Hamilton on February 19, 2012.
6. Australia's Adam Gilchrist holds the record for the most number of catches taken by a wicketkeeper in a test series. Gilchrist achieved this remarkable feat by taking a staggering 21 catches during the 2004 Border-Gavaskar Trophy against India.
7. The English cricketer named Frank Woolley bowled an incredible 21 consecutive maiden overs during a County Championship match in 1911, setting the record for the most number of consecutive maiden overs.
8. The cricket stadium known for its deafening crowd noise is the M. Chinnaswamy Stadium in Bangalore, India. The passionate fans make it one of the loudest and most intimidating cricket venues in the world.

9. Larry Gomes from the West Indies was a versatile cricketer who could effectively bowl with both arms. Gomes possessed the rare ability to switch between right-handed and left-handed bowling, confusing batsmen with his unpredictable variations.
10. The highest team score in a One-Day International match belongs to England, who scored a mind-boggling 481 runs for the loss of 6 wickets against Australia in Nottingham on June 19, 2018.
