Caracol: The Grandeur of the Ancient Kingdom

Caracol, located within the Chiquibul Forest Reserve, is one of the largest Maya sites in Belize. Its towering pyramids and impressive plazas are a testament to the thriving civilization that once inhabited the area. Climb the steep steps of the Sky Palace and immerse yourself in the grandeur of the ancient kingdom as you take in panoramic views of the surrounding jungle.

Xunantunich: The City of the Maiden

Xunantunich, meaning "Stone Woman", is a well-preserved Mayan city that offers a unique glimpse into the past. Climb atop El Castillo, the largest pyramid at the site, and marvel at the expansive views of the Belizean countryside. Explore the intricately carved stelae and imagine the ceremonies that took place in the Great Plaza, once the social and cultural center of the city.

Lamanai: Unveiling Sacred Temples

Nestled along the banks of the New River Lagoon, Lamanai is a Mayan site revered for its ceremonial temples and ancient artifacts. Take a leisurely boat ride up the river and witness the mesmerizing natural beauty that surrounds the site. As you explore the temples, keep an eye out for the famous Mask Temple, adorned with a remarkable facade depicting a Mayan ruler.

Belize: The Perfect Blend

Beyond its archaeological wonders, Belize offers a perfect blend of adventure, relaxation, and natural beauty. Dive into the crystal-clear waters of the Belize Barrier Reef, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, and discover a vibrant underwater world teeming with colorful fish and coral formations. Head inland and explore the dense jungles, home to a variety of wildlife such as jaguars, tapirs, and exotic birds.

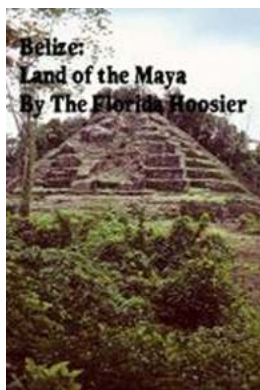

Embracing the Maya Culture Today

Throughout Belize, the rich Maya culture is still palpable. Local communities proudly uphold their heritage and offer visitors the opportunity to immerse themselves in traditional practices and customs. From learning about medicinal plants and traditional cooking techniques to witnessing vibrant traditional dances, the Maya people of Belize warmly embrace those who seek to understand their way of life.

Not being extremely fond of jungles and with visions of Voodoo dancing in my mind, my apprehension had been at a rather high level as I prepared to visit Belize. The journey had actually begun the previous summer after spending a month in the outback of Australia.

Lynn Gardner and Anna Mitchell-Hedges were displaying the crystal skull in Indianapolis the following week. Mitchell- Hedges, had discovered the skull while visiting Belize with her father in the 1920s when she was sixteen years old. She was on tour in the United States and at the meeting relayed an interesting story on how she came about finding the skull.

She told how they had searched in the jungle for the pyramid Lubaantun where the skull was reputed to be located. Upon discovering the pyramid, she being the smallest was elected to go down in the cavern in search of the treasure. Braving the hazards of entering an opening in the pyramid that possibly hadn't been explored in centuries, she found the renowned skull and brought it to daylight for the first time in centuries.

Thus, my journey into the ancient Maya land began, it all seemed very exciting and not knowing quite what to expect I began to make plans for the January expedition.
