With a strong determination to make a difference, Yee embarked on a path of education and public service. After earning a bachelor's degree in Sociology from the University of California, Berkeley, she went on to obtain a master's degree in Public Administration from Golden Gate University.

Yee's commitment to public service began early on in her career, as she worked for the Legislature and Governor's Office, focusing on budget and fiscal issues. Her expertise in finance and budget management propelled her into various leadership positions, ultimately leading her to become the California State Controller in 2015.

Championing fiscal responsibility as the California State Controller

As the California State Controller, Yee is responsible for managing the state's finances, tracking how taxpayer dollars are spent, and ensuring fiscal accountability. Her role is crucial in maintaining the financial stability and integrity of the state.

Yee has been a staunch advocate for transparency, accountability, and equitable access to resources. She has spearheaded initiatives to modernize and improve the state's financial systems, ensuring efficient and effective use of taxpayer funds. Her efforts have not only benefited the state's economy but have also set an exemplary standard for financial management at a national level.

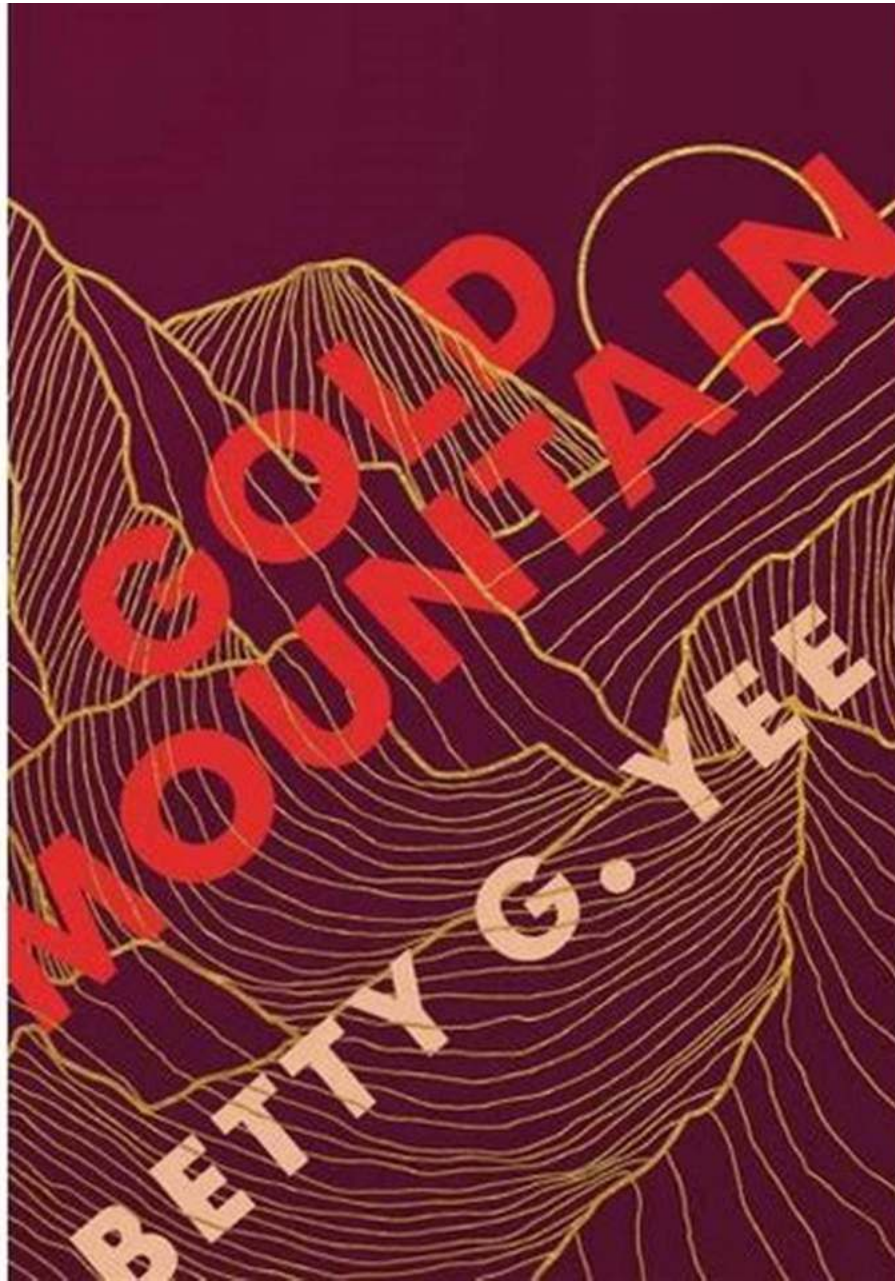

Yee's dedication to fiscal responsibility has earned her accolades and recognition from various organizations. She has received prestigious awards such as the 2019 Women in Public Finance Founders' Award and the 2017 California Women Lead Legacy Award, among others.

Breaking barriers and shattering glass ceilings

Throughout her career, Betty Yee has shattered numerous glass ceilings, becoming a trailblazer and an inspiration for many. As the highest-ranking Chinese American woman in California's state government, Yee has continuously worked towards building a more inclusive and equitable society.

Yee's accomplishments extend beyond her role as the California State Controller. She has served on numerous boards and commissions, advocating for social justice, economic empowerment, and environmental sustainability. From fighting for women's rights to championing climate change initiatives, Yee has emerged as a leader committed to addressing the critical issues facing our society.

Working on the Transcontinental Railroad promises a fortune—for those who survive.

Growing up in 1860s China, Tam Ling Fan has lived a life of comfort. Her father is wealthy enough to provide for his family but unconventional enough to spare Ling Fan from the debilitating foot-binding required of most well-off girls. But Ling Fan's life is upended when her brother dies of influenza and their father is imprisoned under false accusations. Hoping to earn the money that will secure her father's release, Ling Fan disguises herself as a boy and takes her brother's contract to work for the Central Pacific Railroad Company in America.

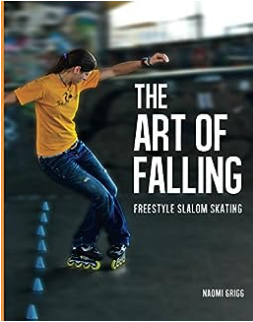

Life on "the Gold Mountain" is grueling and dangerous. To build the railroad that will connect the west coast to the east, Ling Fan and other Chinese laborers lay track and blast tunnels through the treacherous peaks of the Sierra Nevada, facing cave-ins, avalanches, and blizzards—along with hostility from white Americans.

When someone threatens to expose Ling Fan's secret, she must take an even greater risk to save what's left of her family . . . and to escape the Gold Mountain alive.
