Early Life and Rise to Stardom

Despite her upbringing in India, Collins moved to England at an early age and began honing her acting skills at the renowned Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. It was there that she developed her signature style, blending poise, elegance, and emotion to create captivating performances.

In 1935, Collins caught the attention of Hollywood through her powerful stage presence in London's West End. This marked the beginning of a remarkable career that would leave an indelible mark on the entertainment industry.

The Vivien Leigh Era

Collins rose to international fame as Vivien Leigh, adopting her stage name to differentiate herself and create a unique identity. Her breakthrough role came in 1939 when she portrayed Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone with the Wind," one of the most celebrated films in cinematic history.

Leigh's portrayal of Scarlett O'Hara was nothing short of mesmerizing. Her ability to convey a wide range of emotions captivated audiences, leaving a lasting impact on the industry. The role earned her critical acclaim and a well-deserved Academy Award for Best Actress.

Legacy and Impact

Vivien Leigh's career was not limited to just one iconic role. She continued to astound audiences with her versatile performances in movies such as "A Streetcar Named Desire" and "Anna Karenina."

Leigh's dedication to her craft and her ability to bring complex characters to life set her apart from her peers. Her extraordinary talent opened doors for future generations of actors and actresses, paving the way for women in the industry.

The Personal Life of a Legend

While Vivien Leigh's professional life thrived, her personal life faced numerous challenges. Her tumultuous marriage to fellow actor Laurence Olivier garnered immense media attention, and their relationship ended in divorce in 1960.

Despite the trials she faced, Leigh remained resilient. She continued to pursue her passion for acting and found solace in a diverse range of roles until her untimely death in 1967.

Lights, Camera, and My Mother in Action

The last thing Vivien Leigh Reid wants to do is spend her summer on a film set in Ireland. It may sound glamorous but it means being trapped for six weeks with her mother, movie star diva, Annika Anderson. Annika has legions of fans, but her estranged daughter Leigh is definitely not one of them.

Leigh has no interest in acting, but she jumps at a part in her mom's film as a way to get closer to the hot Irish co-star, Sean Finlay. Soon she's sharing scenes and scripts with Annika, and vying for both the spotlight and Sean's attention.

One small movie set isn't big enough to contain the rising tension. When Leigh catches her mom flirting with Sean, she runs off to Dublin. With no money and nowhere to stay, she'll need to survive on her wits. Or will Annika step out of the spotlight long enough to find her daughter and bring her back home?

Reviews of the Vivien Leigh Reid series

“Collins and Rideout cast Leigh as a likable, spunky American teen discovering new talents and an appreciation for all things Irish. Readers will have fun watching Leigh catch the acting bug and cheer her on as she holds her own with her diva mother.” ~ Booklist

"This is teen chick lit at its finest! ...The characters are well balanced and charming, and there's the right amount of romance, tension and wit." ~ Romantic Times

"Pop-culture fun with a moral... Extreme diva behavior in both characters makes for a juicy read." ~ School Library Journal

"I can't say enough wonderful things about this book. It is hilarious, the characters are well developed and likable, and Leigh's dreams of becoming a starlet will touch the hearts of those who read this book... A super book!" ~ Children's Literature

"Collins and Rideout have a talent for clever dialogue, amusing plot and, above all, a delightfully feisty, funny heroine. Some of the best sections are from Leigh's imagination, describing what she'd like to be happening. Written in the form of movie scripts, these are invariably hilarious." ~ Winnipeg Free Press
